

To the FCC:

You have undoubtedly been receiving a great deal of public reaction to the announced decision by Sinclair Broadcasting to have their stations air a program attacking John Kerry shortly before the election. This would be a breach of the public trust in the FCC as well as a huge public-relations blunder by Sinclair.

We need stronger regulation of media ownership if our democracy is to retain truly free and informative broadcast media. Sinclair would be abusing its privilege by utilizing the airwaves in a strictly partisan manner. Thank you.
